Course Description
Selecting and preserving a variety of items (tangible and intangible) to meet needs of particular users; community analysis; policies and procedures; evaluation; purchasing. (UTK Catalog)

This course studies the process of selecting and managing a variety of items (tangible and intangible) to meet the needs of a particular group of users. It introduces many essential collection development concepts including but not limited to community analysis, policies and procedures, evaluation and purchasing. Although the character of collection development may vary in different information environments, there are core concepts and skills that transcend all these environments. Students will learn these core principles and skills and how they might be applied in a variety of information contexts.

This course is characterized by a collaborative learning atmosphere which requires you to use critical thinking skills and to have a commitment and involvement in your projects and discussions during class meetings and online. I will do everything I can to make the course a rewarding learning experience that is meaningful to you as information professionals. However, to get the most out of this course you will need to be actively involved in our readings, discussions, and assignments.

INSC 560 (Course) Learning Outcomes:
When you complete this course, you will be able to:

How to be Successful in this Class
Be present, be intellectually curious, contribute regularly, and engage equally with your peers and me. You do more than show up for class. You are present and engaged during and after class; start and contribute to posts on Canvas and bring related materials to the attention of the instructor or your fellow students. Your contributions show original thought and initiative, not simply agreement or endorsement. You interact with your peers as much as you do with me so that we create a learning community. Quality of thought is much more important than quantity.

Civility
Civility is genuine respect and regard for others: politeness, consideration, tact, good manners, graciousness, cordiality, affability, amiability and courteousness. Civility enhances academic freedom and integrity and is a prerequisite to the free exchange of ideas and knowledge in the learning community. Our community consists of students, faculty, staff, alumni, and campus visitors. Community members affect each other’s well-being and have a shared interest in creating and sustaining an environment where all community members and their points of view are valued and respected. Affirming the value of each member of the university community, the campus asks that all its members adhere to the principles of civility and community adopted by the campus.

Learning Environment
Our class space is intended to be a safe, intellectually stimulating, collaborative space for learning, where we respect each other’s thoughts and process, and everyone’s voice and experiences are important.

My approach to teaching is based on Malcolm Knowles’ view of adults as learners, and John Dewey’s ideas about active (versus passive) learning. You are self-directed, purposeful learners, who learn best when you build on your own personal experiences. You like to be involved in the construction of your learning experience. Our mutual active participation will create a collaborative learning community, where we co-create value. Even though you may have little to no collection experience, as an adult you bring knowledge and experiences that can enrich our class when shared appropriately.

You are a selfless learner, willing to put yourself forward to ask questions, propose answers, and provide feedback as needed. It is usually the case, for example, that if one person has a question or needs clarification, many others also wonder. Be bold and brave, ask when others are silent.

There are several different kinds of learning activities in this class, such as lectures (live and pre-recorded), group work, presentations, guest lecturers, interviews, etc. Graduate students can realistically expect to spend three hours outside of class for each credit hour.

Information Literacy/Technological Resources
This online synchronous (real time) class requires you to be comfortable with different technologies, including Online@UT (Canvas and Zoom), the Internet and world wide web, word processing, presentation and spreadsheet software, and some social media applications. There are campus resources to support your use of technology (see list below), but ultimately it is your responsibility to make sure you have the necessary technical equipment and knowledge needed.
For example, one of the most often overlooked technical requirements is your Internet connection speed. Try to have the fastest Internet connection available in your area.

For additional information or support:

- Technology at SIS
  - For online support during class, scroll down the page until you see the section entitled, “Real Time, Live Class Meetings Using ZOOM”

- UT Office of Information Technology (OIT)
  - There’s a link to the OIT HelpDesk on the upper left side of the page.
  - LinkedIn Learning is a great source of online training support, with tutorials and video on everything from Google Drive to Canvas. You’ll need your UTK netid and password to sign in.

Each semester OIT offers “Test Flights” where you can join an informal Zoom session to test your equipment and connections prior to class. These sessions are announced via email, appear on your Canvas dashboard, and also on the LiveOnline@UT site. Strongly recommended!

I am required to communicate with you through your UTK email address. If you prefer to use another address, consult the OIT Helpdesk to obtain directions for forwarding your UTK mail to your preferred address if you don’t wish to check both accounts.

Course Requirements, Assessment and Evaluation Methods

Assessment and Evaluation
All assignments receive a point value, and a perfect score on all assignments adds up to 860 points. The University mandates a particular grading scale for graduate students, and the scale below is what I use to convert our point values to letter grades. For individual assignments, divide the points you earned by the total points possible for the assignment and then multiply that number by 100 and round it to the nearest whole number. For example, if you earned 13 points for a 15-point assignment, your letter grade would be \( \frac{13}{15} = 0.87 \times 100 = 87 \), or a B+.

Converting Points to a Letter Grade

<td>(3.5 quality points per semester hour) better than satisfactory performance.</td>

You are welcome to discuss your evaluations with me. You must wait 24 hours after receiving the grade to contact me, and present documentation for why you believe you have earned a different grade. I reserve the right to make the final decision.

Penalty for Late Work
Except by prior agreement, 1 point per business day may be deducted for written or oral work not submitted by class time the day due. “Prior agreement” means at least 24 hours prior to the original time scheduled for the presentation or assignment.

Note on “Incompletes”
University of Tennessee policy states that an "Incomplete" is granted only under "the most unusual of circumstances" at the discretion of the instructor. An “F” is submitted for students who simply disappear. More information is available here.

Methods of Documentation for Assignments
- Double spaced, 1” margins, 12-point type
- Insert page number, bottom right
- Title pages are optional, BUT always give your paper a title
- Accepted document formats – unless specified in the assignment are .doc and .docx. Convert your documents from other formats if needed.
- Cite everything!
- Put your name on everything!

University Policies

Class Attendance Policy
Students are expected to attend class each week and be fully prepared to actively participate. Please try to notify me in advance if you need to miss class. If you do miss class, listen to the archived lecture/discussion and let me know if you have questions.

Class Cancellation
Should it be necessary to cancel a class meeting, every effort will be taken to do so in advance. Look for e-mail announcements via Canvas. More information about the School’s cancellation policy is available online. If UT cancels classes, then our class is automatically cancelled. Information about the University of Tennessee weather-related closing policy is available here.

Students with Disabilities that May Impede Learning
Any student who feels s/he may need an accommodation based on the impact of a disability should contact Student Disability Services in Dunford Hall, at 865-974-6087, or by video relay at, 865-622-6566, to coordinate reasonable academic accommodations.
Academic Integrity
Students should be familiar and maintain their Academic Integrity, described in the online Hilltopics Student Handbook: “Study, preparation and presentation should involve at all times the student’s own work, unless it has been clearly specified that work is to be a team effort. Academic honesty requires that the student present his or her own work in all academic projects, including tests, papers, homework, and class presentation. When incorporating the work of other scholars and writers into a project, the student must accurately cite the source of that work.”

Students should abide by the University of Tennessee Honor Statement: “As a student of the University, I pledge that I will neither knowingly give nor receive any inappropriate assistance in academic work, thus affirming my own personal commitment to honor and integrity.”

Plagiarism
Plagiarism in any of its several forms is intolerable, and attention to matters of documentation in all written work is expected and required. Inadvertence, alleged lack of understanding, or avowed ignorance of the various types of plagiarism are not acceptable excuses. Specific examples of plagiarism are:
- Copying without proper documentation (quotation marks and a citation) written or spoken words, phrases, or sentences from any source;
- Summarizing without proper documentation (usually a citation) ideas from another source (unless such information is recognized as common knowledge);
- Borrowing facts, statistics, graphs, pictorial representations, or phrases without acknowledging the source (unless such information is recognized as common knowledge);
- Collaborating on a graded assignment without the instructor’s approval;
- Submitting work, either in whole or in part, created by a professional service and used without attribution (e.g., paper, speech, bibliography, or photograph).

Students who may be unsure of the nature of plagiarism should consult a guide for writing research reports. Hodges has prepared a short libguide on the subject. Infractions of academic integrity are penalized according to the severity of the infraction.

CCI Diversity Statement
The College of Communication and Information recognizes that a college diverse in its people, curricula, scholarship, research, and creative activities expands opportunities for intellectual inquiry and engagement, helps students develop critical thinking skills, and prepares students for social and civic responsibilities. All members of the College benefit from diversity and the quality of learning, research, scholarship and creative activities is enhanced by a climate of inclusion, understanding and appreciation of differences and the full range of human experience. As a result, the College is committed to diversity and equal opportunity and it recognizes that it must represent the diversity inherent in American society. The College is acutely aware that diversity and fairness are foundations that unite the College’s faculty, staff, students, and the larger communication and information community. More about the CCI/SIS commitment to diversity is here.
